WHAT'S THE PLAN ?

01

Presentations by recognized experts in One Health, public health, sustainability and biomedical sciences

02

Hands-on workshops focused on health, nutrition, well-being and collective intelligence

03

Real-world field experiences, including a visit to a pedagogical farm and outdoor activities

04

Interdisciplinary and international teamwork with students from different backgrounds

05

Strong focus on sustainability and healthy lifestyles

WHY JOIN ?

Through expert lectures, hands-on workshops and field activities, students gain practical insights into today's key health and sustainability challenges.

A concrete and interdisciplinary One Health approach

Students are introduced to the One Health concept by experts (Sciensano, ULiège, UGent...) and explore topics such as zoonoses, microbiomes, and environmental health.

Topics directly connected to healthcare practice

The BIP addresses highly relevant themes for future health professionals, including: sustainable development in hospitals, the impact of physical activity on health, well-being, health literacy...

An active learning experience

Beyond lectures, the programme emphasizes experiential learning through cooking workshops, collective intelligence sessions, orienteering activities, or a visit to a pedagogical farm.

A strong human and international experience

The BIP encourages collaboration between students, informal exchanges, and shared moments.
